The Lost Treasure of Stone

The discovery, and subsequent research,
of the Stone Matrix Seal

An illustrated talk by Steve Booth and Philip Leason, members of the Stone Historical and Civic Society.

On August 22nd, 2011, metal detectorists Tony and Veronica Burke found a bronze seal matrix while exploring a field in Cobham, Surrey. It was identified as the seal matrix of the Augustinian Priory at Stone, where it had been in use between 1200 and 1300 AD.

Learn more about the Seal, and how it found its way back to Stone.
